

Try This Feedback Form Feat While It's Fresh (From Jerry Cederquist's Bag of Screen Management Tricks)

After TMUG has posted the URL for the feedback form (which is hosted via Google) into the Chat window for Zoom, just double-click-and-drag on the URL and drag from the Chat window out onto a blank spot on your desktop. Depending on how you've got your Mac configured, at least one or perhaps both of the following will occur:

1. A clickable URL icon for the feedback form will appear on your desktop.
2. The feedback form itself will appear in a new browser window in your default browser. This window should appear behind your Zoom window, but if not, click in your Zoom window to bring the main Zoom window back to the foreground.

Continue viewing the TMUG meeting in the main Zoom window. When the meeting is finished, quit Zoom, and the feedback-form window should appear, ready to be filled in immediately. Fill it in right away while your memories of the meeting are fresh. If no feedback-form window appears, double-click on the clickable URL icon for the feedback form that is left on the desktop and it will appear in a browser window on your desktop. You're done, and TMUG benefits from your instant feedback.
